The Republican Class Convention, composed of delegates from the several towns in the County, will meet by delegation in convention at the Court House in Bangor, on SATURDAY, the 18th day of August, at 10 o'clock A. M. for the purpose of nominating candidates for the following offices, viz:

One Senator for the Class.

By order of the Committee,

CHARLES A. BOUTELLE, Chairman.
ALBERT BURR, Secretary.

Bangor, August 14, 1877.

TO REPUBLICANS!

The campaign is now fairly opened. In all the States and Territories of the Union active preparations are being made for the fall elections. Both parties have selected their leaders, and are marshalling their forces for the conflict. The issues are clearly defined, and the capital of each party is fully proclaimed. The Republicans have a record which they have successfully defended in the past, and which they are determined to defend in the present campaign. Their candidates are honored and trusted leaders. SELDEN CONNOR, whose name represents to the unfortunate soldier the high character of the man who led the Union armies in the War for the Union, and who sympathized with the poor soldier in his every trial, and who has always shared the full confidence and esteem of the people, by his able and successful solution of all the duties of his office as Chief Magistrate of the State.

On the other hand our enemies, the Democratic Party can only appeal to the fallibility of men for their success. They dare not longer present the right they have had to make any issue with the honest convictions of the Republican Party with its statesmen of Free Principles and the election of principles which are exciting, indorsement of the South's policy and rejection of Democratic interests and the honest opinion of the people, by voting for the Republican candidates, will support the Administration in its efforts to bring about a permanent and just settlement of the questions growing out of the late war, and will thus secure to the country the blessings of peace, prosperity and fraternal feeling.

Let us, then, lay aside such contemptible weapons as the Democratic party therein have at their command, and meet the issues of the campaign like men. Let every Republican vote, and vote early, and let us roll up such a majority for SELDEN CONNOR as will show to the country that Maine is still true to the principles which she has ever maintained.

The telegraph reports that General Nickerson in the Maine Democratic Convention pinned his colors to the mast, attacked Mr. Blaine fiercely. After Silk Smuggling Steamship Employes.

The agent of the National Steamship Company again applied to the Secretary of the Treasury to-day, asking that the Company be allowed to give bonds to appear in answer to a libel of the steamer Denmark, in case any libel should be filed, and to give such other bond as might then be required by the Court. The matter was referred to United States Attorney Woodford who properly has control of the proceedings, and received the following telegram in reply from Attorney Woodford. I still adhere to my opinion reported yesterday, that this silk smuggling can be most effectively broken up by enforcing the law against the vessels. The Steamship lines can, if they will, stop this smuggling by their employes. They surely will when they find they must. I have accordingly filed a libel against the Denmark.

"AFTER AN HUNDRED YEARS."

Bennington's Great Celebration.

A MAGNIFICENT PROCESSION.

Forty Thousand Spectators.

The Banquet and Speech-Makers.

BENNINGTON Aug 16 A train containing visiting militia from New York arrived two hours later but in time to take their places in the 6th division of the procession. All the trains came in loaded and the crowd is fearful. The weather was rainy this morning, but about 11 o'clock the skies blight and cast a lovely day ensues. It is safe to say that more distinguished people are here to-day than graced either Centennial celebrations of Concord or Lexington. Among the notables present participating are President Hayes and his wife sons Hon Wm Windom Hon Charles Devens, Hon George W McCrary and Hon David M Key of the Cabinet—Vice President Wheeler is not present—All of Vermont's distinguished men are here.

The Procession

was formed in the order stated in the Chief Marshal's circular and moved immediately on the arrival of the New York visiting military. It was over four miles in length containing at a reasonable estimate 8 000 persons while the opposing parade was white said by over 50,000 people. Nothing approaching the success of this centennial celebration was ever witnessed in this State.

The principle feature was the Presidential party, reception of the President and his ride in the procession having partaken of a triumphal nature. Enthusiasm ran wild and the decoration of every form and color bombarded the senses greeted him in continuous roll along the entire route. Secretary Evarts and accompanying associates also created much enthusiasm. In the carriage with President Hayes rode Governor Fairbanks of Vermont. Of the Governors of New England who were recognized by the people were those who spoke yesterday and Gov Prescott of New Hampshire and Hoar, Gov Long, Governors of Massachusetts. The Legislatures of Vermont and New Hampshire walked the entire distance in the procession. Nothing seems to reach the people so much as the march of the Vermont and New Hampshire veterans. There were thousands of them in line to-day and each company passed the triumphal arch all hats were raised. Many distinguished officer of the rebellion were recognized and loudly applauded.

A great feature of to-day's procession was the two six pound cannon captured from the British by Gen Stark. The Putnam Phalanx also yesterday presented a fine appearance. Seldom has there been witnessed in this country a line of persons as much of years pageantry as the marching parade as on this occasion. The great centre of decorations for the line of march was the triumphal arch at the crossing of Main and North and South streets. Last night's illumination will show the beauties of its design with most brilliant effect. When procession arrived at the festival fields it passed in review before the President, Mrs Hayes and the others.

The President's Remarks

President Hayes welcomed the procession at the following stand with brief remarks, in which he congratulated the State of Vermont upon the fullest celebration and progress of this Centennial occasion and referred to to olden interest taken in her one hundredth anniversary of two prominent events by the visiting officials of sister States, the military, and thousands present. Secretary Evarts then introduced Mr Hayes very happily as President Hayes's "Mother's Home." Great enthusiasm was likely given by the expressions of

In the Pavilion

After the circle exercises in the pavilion tent commenced. Ch of Marshal Watson, time and staff escorted the President and Cabinet, the Governor of Vermont and Governors of other States the chaplain and orator of day, and other distinguished guests to seats on the platform. Service began by prayer by Rev. John Wheelock. Allen a grandson of fighting Parson Allen, of Bennington battle memory. Gen Phelps introduced Gov Prescott who gave a short address of welcome. The poem of William Cullen Bryant was then read by Prof Churchill, of Andover Mass with thrilling effect. President Hayes Secretary Evarts and Attorney General Devens were then called out by the assembled multitude and great applause and responded beautifully. These services were enlivened by music.

The Banquet

At the conclusion of the march the procession adjourned to the banquet tent where Vermont and the hosts sat down to a banquet was an elegant and gracefully staff. The dining waited upon by the Mountain girls to 100 young ladies, mothers of these ladies prepared for the Green Mountain boys, New Hampshire troops and Rockshire, marching the Bennington battle was fought. So in the days of peace on 15th centennial occasion they volunteer to wait on the fifth guests from old States.

President Hayes being called for briefly. At the close of the address speech Secretary Evarts was loudly for and responded. Postmaster General Key being loudly called for responded briefly. Attorney-General Devens then loudly called for and, smiling, vancing the spoke. McCrary was then loudly called for but had left the tent Hon F H Spaughton, of New York was then called for and responded in a fitting manner. N P Banks was then called and Mrs Hayes, but the President stated that it was long past the time for the banquet and they did not respond.

After dinner had been partaken of the Centennial Committee addressed those present and proposed the health of the President responded to by the President. Letters of regret were read from Lord Dufferin, Governor General of Canada, and other.

Mr Evarts closed his speech by referring to the fact that had been brought to the notice of the American people by a distinguished writer [Artemus Ward] who had declared himself ready to sacrifice on the altar of his country all his wife's relations but John Stark went further than that and declared himself willing to sacrifice his wife's husband. [Laughter and applause.] Mr. Evarts was followed by Gov. Prescott of New Hampshire President Phelps, Hon. Mr Spaughton of New York, Gov Fairbanks of Vermont, Senator Edmunds, Postmaster General Key Attorney General Devens.

Before the latter dinner left at the banquet was completed the President and party were obliged to leave. He goes to Rutland, to-night and thence to Brattleboro. He was escorted to his train by a detachment.

The nourishing and life-supporting properties of many valuable natural productions contained in it and well known to medical men, have a most strengthening influence. A single bottle of the Tonic will demonstrate its valuable qualities. For debility arising from sickness, over exertion or from any cause whatever a wineglassful of Sea Weed Tonic taken after meals will strengthen the stomach and create an appetite for wholesome food. To all who are about leaving their homes, we desire to say that the excellent effects of Dr Schenck's seasonable remedies, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills are particularly evident when taken by those who are injuriously affected by a change of water and diet. No person should leave home without taking a supply of these safeguards along. Schenck's pamphlet, containing full directions, can be had of druggists.

Stand up on Spencer cape and Jo banks,
From which you may look down on hundred feet
With pulling cheek, for there sharp rocks
Lift their toru and jagged edges high
And a treacherous stream of water flows
Among them, two men fi deadly strugs,
Sustained the every nerve for mastery.
Their well knit frames were wrenched about.

One was low browed, A coarse beard
Whose nostrils eyes and lips and
